NUMB. 5025

MONDAY, MAY 27, 1745.

Copenhagen, May. 9.

ACcording to the last Dispatches receiv'd from our Minister at the Court of Petersbourg, it seems highly probable that our Court will be able to adjust all her Disputes with the House of Holstein amicably, notwithstanding the Arts that we are sensible have been used by the Emissaries of a [illegible] Court to prevent it. The Conferences with the [illegible] Minister are still carried on; and it is believed a [illegible] of Subsidy will be very speedily concluded, in [illegible]sequence of which, 8000 of our Troops will march [illegible] replace the like Number that are to join the Con[illegible]te Army in the Empire. We have just now re[illegible]'d Advice, that a new Treaty of Commerce is con[illegible]ded between the Courts of Petersbourg and Stock[illegible]m; but the Terms are not as yet made publick.

Vienna, May 19. We hear from Silesia, that the King of Prussia is transporting his Magazines from Schweid[illegible]z, dismantling the old Walls thereof, and retiring with [illegible] Army to Lignitz, which is but seven Miles from [illegible]gaw. If this be true, Breslau, Brieg, and Neiss, [illegible] left open. There is great Talk here of the Grand [illegible]ke's commanding the Army in the Empire, which [illegible]l exceed 50,000 Men. We hear from Italy, that the [illegible]nands are pent up between the Sea and the Mount[illegible]s, and that they have lost at least 4000 Men in their [illegible]ches. General Bathiani is supposed to be set out [illegible] the Combined Army upon the Rhine, with the [illegible]e of Marshal.

Mentz, May 23. The Prince of Conti has Orders to [illegible]ch 18,000 Men to the Netherlands. The French [illegible]ually began to repass the Rhine Yesterday, upon their [illegible]dge at Biberich. We saw Part of their Cavalry file [illegible] from the Windows of the Elector's Palace. The [illegible]sage continues to Day, with great Diligence; and it [illegible]said, that by To-morrow Night, the whole Number [illegible]ll be on this Side of the River. Whether their real [illegible]ntion is to march to the Low Countries, or make [illegible] Attempt upon this Town, we cannot positively say; [illegible]t lest it should be the latter, the Elector has ordered [illegible]000 Men to encamp upon the Glacis, to prevent a Sur[illegible]rize. Letters from Worms inform us, that 12 Barges, [illegible]hich were arrived there from the Upper Rhine with [illegible]orage, in their Way to this Neighbourhood, have been [illegible]countermanded, and are to remount the River as far [illegible] Spire; which looks as if the Design of the French [illegible]as, in reality, to march to the Netherlands. Marshal [illegible]Traun has begun his March towards Franckfort, with [illegible]pwards of 40,000 Men.

Mentz, May 26. The French continued to pass the Rhine all Day on the 23d, 24th, and Yesterday Morn[illegible]g, after having drawn off the Cannon which they had [illegible] the Island of Ingelheim. They began to take up the [illegible]alisadoes which defended the two Heads of their [illegible]idge, and they have since demanded a Passage for [illegible]eir Bridge, which they are now employ'd in breaking [illegible]p. Part of their Troops and Baggage are marched, [illegible]with great Diligence, up the Rhine, for Oppenheim; [illegible]rom whence, it is thought, they will proceed to Spire, [illegible]here they are forming very large Magazines. Another [illegible]art of their Troops has filed off to the Right, towards the Hunsruck; and we have Advice, that the Corps [illegible]day commanded by M. de Chatelet upon the Moselle, [illegible]mounting to 6 or 7000 Men, will begin its March To[illegible]morrow towards the Netherlands, and that they will be followed incessantly by those Troops which are marched from this Neighbourhood towards the Hunsruck. The Prince of Conti passed thro' this Town on the 24th, to Oppenheim, and was followed Yesterday by M. de Chatelet. The French have abandon'd Aschaffenburgh, and some other Posts in the Neighbourhood of Franckfort; but they have reinforced Konigstein and Hoecht, and give out, that they will still retain a Corps of 30 Battalions, and 35 Squadrons in this Neighbourhood; but we believe, on the contrary, that as Marshal Traun advances, all their Posts on the North Side of the Rhine will be withdrawn. The Elector's Ministers to the Dyet will set out from hence on the 29th, or 30th, for Franckfort.

Berlin, May 25. A large Quantity of Gunpowder, and other Ammunitions of War, which were embark'd in order to be transported to Magdebourg, and were, by his Prussian Majesty's Orders, disembarked, are now again embarked for the same Purpose; and the greatest Part of the Officers are gone thither already. Advices from Silesia give an Account, that the Army, at the Head of which the King will put himself in Person, consists of 60 Battalions, and 120 Squadrons, who were to begin to encamp the 25th of this Month; and that Count Truchses, who commanded on the Frontiers of Bohemia, had received Orders to repair to his Majesty at Kamentz, and was relieved by General du Moulin. The Regiments of Foot of Margrave Charles, Margrave Henry, M. de Munchow, his Royal Highness the Prince of Prussia, General Kleist, and of Prince Ferdinand of Wolfenbuttel, are to leave the Field, in order to go into Garison. All the Boats are still detained; and there are 200 here loaded with Corn, that are to be transported to Silesia along the Oder.

Journal of the Proceedings of the Allied Army in Flanders, from the 13th to the 31st of May.

The 12th and 13th were employ'd in examining into the State of the Regiments, in establishing the Hospitals, and in dispatching Trumpets to the French Camp, to enquire after the State of the Wounded, and to complain of the Treatment they received, contrary to the Rules of War.

The 14th, a Detachment of 600 Foot, 100 Horse, and 100 Hussars, all of the Right Wing, commanded by Brigadier Skelton, was sent to post themselves at Leuse, to prevent the French Pandours and the Grassins from infesting the Edges of the Camp.

The 15th the Quarter-Masters were sent out to mark a Camp, with Lessines on the Right, and Rebay on the Left, a small League from Aeth.

The 16th we marched and took Possession of the new Camp, and a new Corps de Reserve was formed, under the Command of Lieutenant-General Molk, consisting of the Highland Battalion, a Squadron of the King's Dragoons, one of Stair's, and two Austrian Squadrons; two of Hop's Horse, and two of Marsau's Dragoons, Dutch.

The 17th Skelton's Command returned to the Camp late at Night. The Marshal came to his Quarters at Lessines, not having been able to march with the Army, because of his Gout.

The 18th Lord Harry Beuclerk's Battalion relieved Fleming's at Oudenard, who came to Camp.

The 19th Col. Ligonier marched with the Battalions of Duroure, Welch Fusileers, and the Scotch Fusileers, to relieve the King's Regiment in Ghent; that late Ponsonby's, in Bruges; and Col. Ligonier's at Ostend.

The 20th two Detachments of the Right Wing, each composed of 300 Foot, 100 Horse, and 30 Hussirs, one commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Powell, the other by Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Robert Manners, march'd from the Camp, the former to be posted at Everbeck, the other at Scoris, to secure the Convoys from Oudenarde.

The 21st the King's Regiment marched into the Camp from Ghent. A very advantageous Piece of Ground was pitch'd upon in the Front of the Camp for forming the Army in Battle, in case the Enemy should think fit to attack us.

Hague, May 25. The Criminal Prosecutions of certain Dutch Officers, on Account of their Behaviour in the late Action near Tournay, are commenced, and the Sentences are to be without Appeal.

Hague, June 1. His Highness the Prince of Orange has been at Leyden, to compliment Professor Albinus; and returned Yesterday in perfect Health to Lieuwarden, where the Provincial Dyet is about to assemble. Lord Harrington arrived here in the Night between Saturday and Sunday last, and set forwards on his Way to Hanover Yesterday at Three o'Clock in the Afternoon. With the Packet Boat of last Friday are arrived Messieurs Wassner, Caravalho, Flemming, and Hop, Ministers of Hungary, Portugal, Poland, and this Republick; who are all to follow his Majesty to Hanover immediately.

LONDON.

According to private Letters from Petersburgh, the Czarina has caused the Dutch Ambassador Extraordinary to be inform'd, that as soon as the Marriage between the Grand Prince and Princess is solemnized, and some other Measures consequent therefrom are fixed, her Imperial Majesty will take such Steps for facilitating the Restoration of the Peace and Balance of Power in Europe, as shall be perfectly agreeable to the Queen of Hungary and the Maritime Powers.

All the Advices from Italy assure us, that the Spanish and Neapolitan Troops suffer exceedingly by the Marches they have made, and are obliged to make, over Mountains, and Roads almost impracticable; especially for Troops so indifferently provided as they are, without Artillery, and without Baggage; at the same time that it is doubtful, whether the Army of Don Philip will be able to march, or the Genoese to fulfil their Engagements, provided they are inclined to it.

There are Letters from Dresden which say, that his Prussian Majesty acts entirely from his own Judgment in the present Conjuncture; several of his ablest Ministers and most experienced Generals having represented to him the Risque he runs, in case he should be forced to a decisive Engagement against a superior Army, and in a Country which is in a manner wholly disaffected. But the Suggestions of M. de Valori, and the Hopes of some sudden Turn in the Emperor, keeps him fix'd to his old System.

By the same Letters we are told, M. de Naugrenun, did not seem at all surprized at the Conclusion of the Convention between the Courts of Vienna and Dresden, but contented himself with saying, His Master did not pretend to hinder the German States from forging or rivetting their own Chains; but that whenever they found themselves again oppress'd by that House, they would do well to carry their Complaints elsewhere, since they would scarce be listned to at Versailles.

They write from Ratisbon, that M. de Chavigni no sooner receiv'd Advice from the Count de Saxe of the Advantage gained in the Battle of Fontenoi, than he immediately went to Nymphenbourgh, and communicated it to the Elector in the utmost Transport. Sir, answer'd his Highness, I never doubted the Courage, or the Success of the French, for themselves; but I am sure they wanted Spirits, Discipline, and good Fortune, whenever they fought for, &c.

The Protestants in the Cevennes are become much more formidable than they were, so that the Officers sent to seduce them, are obliged to send for Reinforcements; which has greatly retarded, and must naturally retard still, for some time, the March of the Forces which are to serve under M. de Maillebois in Italy. It is believed they have been some way or other furnished with Arms and Ammunition from abroad, they are so well provided; and their Corps as well disciplin'd, as if they had made many Campaigns.

Letters from the Hague acquaint us, that the Prince de Hesse Philipsstadt, who commanded the Dutch Rear-Guard, after the Battle of Fontenoi, marched, tho' exceedingly indisposed, at the Head of his Corps, and by his extraordinary Prudence and Valour did great Service to the whole Confederate Army; for which Prince Waldeck return'd him Thanks as soon as the Forces arriv'd under the Cannon of Aeth; and the States seem extremely pleas'd with this Piece of News, which is of great Consequence to them.

There are Letters from Paris, by the Way of Holland, which say, that the Prince of Conti having represented the Impossibility of effecting any Thing in Germany, a Resolution had been taken to withdraw a great Part of his Forces; and with the rest, to form an Army of Observation in the Neighbourhood of Spire.

The Party of Recruits now in Dover Castle, for General Oglethorpe's Regiment, are to march very soon to Portsmouth; there to embark on board the Success Frigate, for Georgia.

The Thomas Brigantine, of and from Liverpool for Africa, is carried into Rochel.

The Hampshire, Comer, from Maryland for London, is taken by a French Privateer.

There is Advice that a French Privateer of 24 Guns, and near 300 Men, who, with several others of the same Nation, have been for some Time in the North Seas, in order to intercept some Merchant Ships Homeward-bound, is taken by one of his Majesty's Ships of War, after a very smart Engagement, in which several were kill'd on both Sides.

The Winhound, Captain Wyes, a Dutch Man of War, from Lisbon, with valuable Effects on board, is arriv'd at Amsterdam.

Last Saturday a Commission pass'd the Great Seal, appointing his Grace the Duke of Bedford Lord Lieutenant of the County of Bedford.

The Right Hon. the Lord Chancellor has presented the Rev. Mr. John Clayton to the Rectory of Norton near Twycrosts, in the County of Leicester.

His Lordship has likewise been pleased to present the Rev. Mr. Richard Birkett to the Rectory of Withrall, alias Whitehall, in the County of Lincoln.

Last Saturday the Lady of the Right Hon. the Earl of Berkley was safely deliver'd of a Son and Heir, at his Lordship's House in Spring Garden.

The Commissioners of the Land Tax within the two Parishes of St. Margaret's and St. John's, in the City of Westminster, have, for the more equal Distribution of the said Tax, resolved to go Two in every Ward in the said Parishes, with the Assessors, in order to see that they make a regular Assessment, without Partiality.

Admiralty-Office, May 25. On the 15th Inst. Captain Beavor, in his Majesty's Ship the Fox, about four Leagues off Flamborough Head, seeing a Sail in the Offing, gave Chace to her. She proved to be a French Privateer, which, upon seeing the Fox, tack'd, and stood off. Between 9 and 10 the next Morning the Fox came within Musket Shot of her; and the Privateer in springing her Luff, in order to give the Fox her Broadside, carried away all her Top-Masts, on which she immediately struck. She came out of Dunkirk Five Days before, but had taken nothing. She mounts 14 Guns, Nine-pounders; and 16 Swivels, Two-pounders, and has 145 Men: She is called le Bon Ame Louis.
